

Check Against Delivery.
Embargoed until 3:45 PM, 6 November 2010

Between National Religion and Universal Faith: Post-Soviet Immigrant Religiosity in Israel

by Julia Lerner
Ben Gurion University, Beer Sheva, Israel (OCF Fellow)

Session 12, Workshop 12.2: „Demography and Religion“
Our Common Future, Essen, November 6th, 2010

Our Common Future, Hannover/Essen, 2-6 November 2010 (www.ourcommonfuture.de)

Between National Religion and Universal Faith:
Post-Soviet Immigrant Religiosity in Israel

Julia Lerner, PhD
Sociology & Anthropology department at BGU
& the Van Leer Jerusalem Institute

Russian speaking immigrants in Israel: the case and the object of study

- Ethnic “homecomers”, Israelization and Judaization
- Demographic “weapon” vis-a-vis Palestinians, oriental Jews, religious population
- “Doubly doubtful Jewishness” of the ex-Soviets

Three perspectives on emerging Russian speaking religiosity

- Post-Migration syndrome
- Israeli “national religion”
- Post-Soviet “inclusive faith”

national religion or inclusive faith?

